Tech Source Inc., accepted as an Associate Member of Civil Air Navigation Services Organization (CANSO) 01 July 2003

Tech Source Inc., announces that it has been accepted as an Associate Member of Civil Air Navigation Services Organization (CANSO).

Many Governments have moved the responsibility for the provision of Air Navigation Services from civil service departments to outside organizations.

We refer to this process as "corporatisation". This blanket term covers a range of commercial models adopted with differing levels of independence from direct government control extending to the extreme case of privatization.

In all cases the government concerned retains responsibility for the provision of services but licenses or contracts the corporative body to perform the task on its behalf.

The new bodies are required to perform the services safely and efficiently and have freedom to manage their businesses to achieve these objectives.

These corporative bodies have established CANSO as their trade association.
